Introduction

Extraordinary Bodies is a circus company where disabled and non-disabled people work together equally.

All of our performances are relaxed.

This means everyone is allowed to:

- make noise.
- move around.
- come in and out of the room if they need to.

We have made a new show called Human.

It includes:

- circus.
- live music.
- video.

Who is in the show

There are six people in the show.

They are:

- John

We only see John on the screen at the back of the stage.

- Jonny

- Alfa

- Graziella

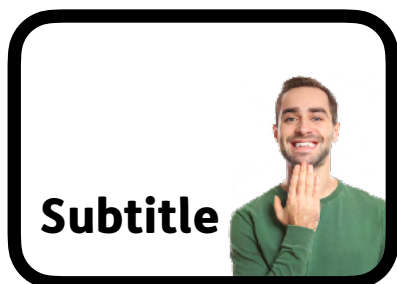

- Tilly

- David

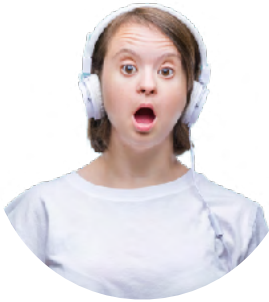

David interprets the show into sign language.

He stands in the bottom right of the screen.

There are also subtitles at the bottom of the screen.

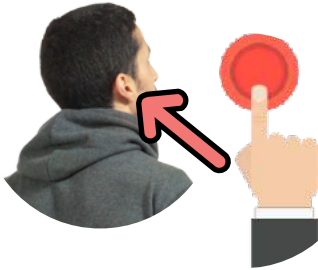

Headphones

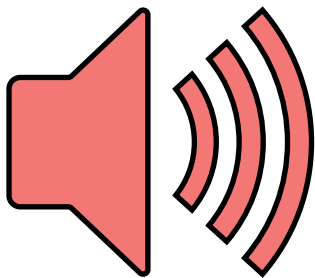

We made Human to be listened to on headphones.

When you go into the performance space, someone will give you a pair of headphones.

Put the headphones over your ears. The buttons should be on your right ear.

One of the buttons lets you change the volume. You can make the sound louder or quieter by pushing it forwards or backwards.

There are two channels on the headphones. One channel has audio description.

This means that someone explains what is going on for people who have difficulty seeing.

If you are on this channel, the headphones will have a blue light on.

The other channel does not have audio description.

If you are on this channel, the headphones will have a pink light on.

You can change the channel by pressing the white button on the right side of the headphones once.

If you have any problems, please ask for help.

What happens in the show

This is what will happen in Human.

Tilly starts the show.

Graziella interrupts Tilly and comes onto the stage carrying boxes.

We see John on the screen. He is in his home.

The show starts again. They sing about what it feels like to be human.

They enjoy their favourite sweet.

Jonny and his mum are in the hospital waiting room. Jonny has to have an operation.

We see Tilly when she was younger on the screen. She likes baking cakes.

Alfa talks about having her baby.

Graziella tries to do circus but she can't, because she is scared of failing.

Tilly pretends to be Jonny's sister, Becky. Jonny and Becky tell their story of being twins.

Graziella finds out that she can do circus.

John leaves his house for the first time in three months.

Tilly gives Graziella her circus costume and Graziella does more circus.

All the characters come to the centre of the stage and bow at the audience.

This is the end of the show.
